Change of Government. The Territorial Bill-Meeting of Campaign Committees. The campaign committee on the proposed change of government for the District of Columbia, appointed from the Citizens' General

Committe of one hundred and fifty, met last evening at Union League Hall, in conjunction with a similar committee of the Boys in Blue. The meeting was called to order by Mr. A. Grant, and R. M. Hall, Esq., was elected chairman of the joint committee during the temporary absence from the city of A. R. Shepherd, q. Capt. J. R. McConnell was elected secretary of the meeting.

Mr. O. D. Barrett, chairman of the Boys in Blue committee, stated the objects of the meeting, what had been done, and what it was intended to do. He stated that it had been protended to do. He stated that it had been proposed to appoint a committee of two from each ward, two from Georgetown, and two from the county to obtain halls and prepare for meetings. That committee was yet to be appointed. He understood that a serious effort was being made by the opponents of the Territorial bill to prevent its passage by the House. They had given up the Senate; and now claimed to have a majority against the bill in the House. They were presenting to the House statements to the effect that if the bill should be passed the Republican party would be defeated here, and the Democratic party get into power. All present knew how false that statement was.

Mr. A. Grant said the Finance Committee of the Boys in Blue were making preparations for the Boys in Blue were making preparations for a torchlight procession in honor of the fifteenth amendment and the Territorial movement. He believed it the duty of every citizen in the Dis-trict to support the fifteenth amendment. The turn out to celebrate it would be the largest one ever seen in this District. Every place in the country had the right of suffrage under the fifteenth amendment except the District of Columbia, and nothing could do more good than to show Congress that this District must be benefitted by the Territorial form of government. fitted by the Territorial form of government, and every citizen secured in his rights under the fifteenth amendment. The procession would be formed on New York avenue, and, after marching to the President's House, would march to the east front of the Capitol, where addresses would be made.

Mr. Philbrook hoped sufficient funds would be raised, and a large demonstration be given. He understood that the City Hall ring proposed to get up a celebration in honor of the fifteenth amendment, and thus endeavoring to make Congress believe that the Republicans of this District were opposed to the Territorial bill. He hoped the energetic Republicans of the District would not leave this demonstration in the hands of the City Hall ring. He moved that the Finance Committee he instructed to rein $2.000. nance Committee be instructed to raise $3,000, in connection with the Executive Committee of the Boys in Blue, to carry out the demonstration—$2,000 to be appropriated for the torch-light procession, and $1,000 to rent halls and hold meetings in favor of the bill. Capt. J. R. McConnell said the Boys in Blue would certainly give the demenstration, and he hoped the friends of the Territorial bill throughout the District would unite with them. Mr. Grant said it must be shown to Congress that the Territorial bill, if passed, would trict, otherwise the bill would not pass the because he believed it would be beneficial to the poor man. He believed the necessary funds could be raised within the next four days.

Rev. J. W. Green hoped that every man of every party would join in celebrating the fifteenth amendment. The Territorial bill would better the condition of the people of this District, without regard to color, and he hoped party measures would be left out entirely. The opponents of the bill would use any means to carry their points, and he hoped the friends of the bill would take all honorable means to defeat them. He was a Republican, but laid that aside and was here as a citizen desiring to have a better government for all. a better government for all.

The motion of Mr. Philbrook to raise $3,000

Mr. Kelsey moved that the demonstration take place on Tuesday night, the 12th inst.; but after some discussion the time for the celebration was left to the chairman of the meeting and General A. Grant, commanding the Boys in Blue, and they were authorized to appoint all the neces-sary committees to carry out the demonstration.

REJOICING AT ITS RATIFICATION. Others—Remarks by President Grant, Vice President, and Others—Remarks by President Grant, Vice President Colfax, Secretaries Fish and Boutwell, Senator Sumner, Col. Forney, Mayor Bowen, and Others—Letter from Gen. Howard.

In accordance with the announcement in THE STAR of yesterday that a serenade would be STAR of yesterday that a screnade would be given last night by the Republicans of the First Ward to the President and other dignitaries, in view of the ratification of the fifteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution, a large assemblage gathered about the White House. The committee of the club met at the Stevens The committee of the club met at the Stevens School-house, on 21st street, early in the evening, and soon after the arrangements were completed. This was an impromptu demonstration by the First Ward Republicans to give vent to their feelings of gratitude to the men who have been prominent actors in the struggle for their freedom. culminating in the ratification of the fifteenth amendment. The members of the First Ward Club and other Republicans began to assemble at the Stevens Schoolhouse about eight o'clock, and soon afterwards two large four-horse omnibuses arrived with house about eight o'clock, and soon afterwards two large four-horse omnibuses arrived with King's Band of fifteen pieces. A short meeting was held in the school-room, and just before its conclusion the band played an air, and Mr. James Wormley requested all to give three cheers for the President of the United States, which was done most heartily. The carriages were then speedily filled, and those who were not fortunate enough to obtain seets took to the not fortunate enough to obtain seats took to the sidewalks, and all proceeded to the President's House, where, in response to the music and cheers by the crowd, the President appeared on the portico. Col. John W. Forney, on behalf of the assembled citizens, then addressed him as follows.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS BY COL. FORNEY.

Mr. President: On the part of the Republicans of the District of Columbia I am here tonight to return to you, in their name, the expression of their profound gratitude for the second proclamation which seals the great work of the war, in the overthrow of which you were the chief instrument. The first proclamation of your illustrious predecessor, which declared the downfall of slavery, was essential to that great moral victory which succeeded the triumph of arms. Mr. President, it is impossible to speak the feelings of the race liberated, first, by Mr. Lincoln, and second, enfranchised by yourself, on this interesting occasion. Those of us who have enjoyed the rights of citizenship for so long a time can not express the emotions INTRODUCTORY REMARKS BY COL. FORNEY. for so long a time can not express the emotions which swell their hearts this evening; and you, sir, may well conceive how they appreciate the great work which has been so splendidly consummated by yourself—the words of counsel, the words of cheer, the words of encouragement you have bestowed upon them—and, therefore, on this inclement night, they have come to tender you their heartfelt thanks for again proving yourself their liberator and their friend. REMARKS OF PRESIDENT GRANT.

REMARKS OF PRESIDENT GRANT.

Sir: I can assure those present that there has been no event since the close of the war in which I have felt so deep an interest as that of the ratification of the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution by three-fourths of the States of the Union. I have felt the greatest anxiety ever since I have been in this house to know that that was to be secured. It looked to me as the realization of the Declaration of Independence. [Cheers.] I cannot say near so much on this subject as I would like to, not being accustomed to public speaking, but I thank you very much for your presence this evening. [Applause.]

The crowd loudly cheered the President as he retired to the vestibule, and the band struck up retired to the vestibule, and the band struck up "John Brown's body lies mouldering in the grave." Cheers were then given for Vice President Colfax, and in response to the call he came forward and said:

came forward and said:

REMARKS OF VICE PRESIDENT COLFAX.

Fellow-citizens: My heart rejoices with yours in that proclamation which declares to the people of this Republic and to the people of the world the ratification of the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution. It is, indeed, a fortunate coincidence that the same voice that proclaimed the downfall of the rebellion and the salvation intact of this imperiled Union proclaimed afterward, as the Chief Magistrate of the land which by his valor and that of his fellow-soldiers was saved from disruption, that fellow-soldiers was saved from disruption, that, as this country has made all free, the same country has determined that every one should have in his hands the ballot to protect that country. Opposed, as it has been, in its progress to this final culmination, it will live in all history as the Magna Charta of this Republic of the United States. [Applause.]

The band afterwards played some more airs, and then all repaired to the residence of Senator Sumner, where, after music by the band, Mr. Sumner made his appearance, (being the first time, it is said, that he has ever responded on such an occasion,) and was introduced to the assemblage by Mr. James Wormly.

REMARKS OF MR. SUMNER.

Mr. Sumner commenced by congratulating them on the great results accomplished in securing equal rights for all, which for years had been his hope and object—to see the promise of the Declaration of Independence become a reality. [Cheers.] He would not say that it was entirely accomplished, for it is not. It was his nature to think more of what remains to be done than of what has been done—more of duties than of triumphs. He had only just heard from Philadelphia of a decision in a court of justice REMARKS OF MR. SUMNER. Philadelphia of a decision in a court of justice that a colored person of foreign birth could not be naturalized in this country because of color. This is in accordance with an old statute—a relic of the days of slavery. He had now a bill before the Judiciary Committee of the Senate striking the word white from our naturalization laws. It remains further that equal rights laws. It remains further that equal rights shall be received in all the public conveyances in the United States, that no one be excluded therefrom by reason of color. It also remains, he said, that you here in Washington shall complete this equality of rights in your common schools. You all go together to vote, and any person may find a seat in the Senate or the United States, but the chiral is share of the common school on account of color. This vote, and any person may find a seat in the Senate of the United States, but the Child is shut out of the common school on account of color. This discrimination must be abolished. All schools must be open to all without distinction of color. In accomplishing this you will work, not only for yourselves, but will set an example for all the land, land most especially for the South. Only in this way can your school system be extended for the equal good of all; and now, as you have at heart the education of your children, that they should grow up in that knowledge of equal rights, so essential for their protection to the world, it is your bounden duty here in Washington to see that this is accomplished. Your school system must be founded on equal rights, so that no one shall be excluded on account of color. [Applause.]

At the close of Mr. Sumner's speech, several airs were played, and the assemblage then proceeded to the north end of the Arlington Hotel, and Col. Fremont was next called upon. The committee were introduced to the Colonel, who thanked them for the compliment tendered him. After an interchange of salutations they retired, the Colonel declining to address them on account of indisposition. Secretary Fish was next called upon at his residence, and Secretary Boutwell was found to be there on a visit. [Cheers.] Cease these petty quarsels, which are distracting your City Councils, and which are of real, serious danger to the cause you seek to sustain. Abandon cliques. Hold no word with those in whose honesty and purity of purpose you have any reason to dishe. Hold no word with those in whose honesty and purity of purpose you have any reason to disbelieve. Elsewhere the colored Republicans from the coast of Maine to that of Florida are quiet. All places are now open to you. Would you seek an illustration? Look at Senator Revels, the successor of Jefferson Davis in the national councils, commanding the respect of all men and the affection of his friends by his good qualities of heart and statesmanship. Here in this city emancipation started, and universal suffrage was cradled. Will you set an example of concity emancipation started, and universal suffrage was cradled. Will you set an example of contention to your brethren in other cities? I speak as your friend, in the attitude of an independent journalist, needing no trust and disdaining any appointment for political position. I have watched over you for five years, and will continue to do so. Do not destroy yourself by your quarrels, but seek rather to strengthen your new-found position by harmony and ananimity of action. [Loud and prolonged cheers.]

The band played several airs, and then departed for the residence of Senator Revels. They found that he had retired, but his private secretary, Mr. George Curtis, in his behalf, thanked the assemblage for the compliment of the serenade, and said the wish of the Senator was to meet them on a future occasion. They the serenade, and said the wish of the Senator was to meet them on a future occasion. They then proceeded to the residence of Mayor Bowen, but before arriving there, and when on 6th street, one of the large ommbusses broke down, rendering it necessary for a part of the company to walk the rest of the way. The Mayor had retired, as the hour was late, but soon appeared and invited the committee into his parlors, where a few moments of pleasant and friendly conversation took place. Mr. Alfred Day made a few remarks, thanking the Mayor for the friendship he had always shown to the colored race. colored race.

REMARKS OF MAYOR BOWEN.

The Mayor repled in appropriate terms, excusing himself for not appearing at the President's House, saying that he was quite unwell, and he merely came down to thank them for the honor they had paid him; that the occasion was one which he delighted to honor. He regarded the fifteenth amendment as the second proclamation of American independence; and on some mation of American independence; and on some future occasion would be most happy to give them his views on its great advantages to them, and of their duties to the party that had been instrumental incompany. instrumental in effecting its consummation. The Mayor then stepped to the window, when three cheers were given him by the crowd outside; after which "Home, sweet home" was played by the band, and the party dispersed to their saverel homes. LETTER FROM GENERAL HOWARD.

The following letter was received by the com mittee:

Alfred Jones and Henry Himber, Committee—
Gentlemen: I will try to be present if the storm abates. Doubtless you will have no serenade if the rain continues as now. I do not wonder that you rejoice at the adoption of the fifteenth amendment, and surely you have reason to be grateful to the President, not only for the positive influence he exerted in its favor, but for the manner in which he has proclaimed its adoption. Dooley's Baking Powder has already taken the precedent over others, from its well known strength and purity; but aside from these facts, it is put up in cans holding the full weight as represented, which is rarely the case with those of ordinary manufacture. Hence, Dooley's Baking Powder is the best, purest, strongest and cheapest ever offered to the consumer, and every one who has used it will readily testify to this assertion. "GOOD MEASURE AND RUNNING OVER." assertion.

THE GREAT FALL IN GOLD is nowhere made more illustrating than by a visit to Franc & Goldman's Popular Gent's Furnishing Goods Stores, No. 409 Seventh street, between D and E streets, and Marble Hall, No. 607 Seventh street, opposite the Patent Office. These gentlemen, who have just now replenished their large stock of Furnishing Goods for the spring and summer season from the large and best whole sale houses East at the lowest Gold Rates, have again taken the lead of other similar establishments here, and give to their patrons such inducements that cannot fail to please. Don't forget the name and numbers.
